THAT ALL IMPORTANT SUBJECT

"MILLINERY"

If Father Adam should return to earth again and should visit our Millinery Department he would surely say: "Behold the modern Eden." After one glance at our specially low prices and being a man, the uninterested party in Ladies head wear, yet so great would be his temptation at seeing such elegance for so little money that he would fall; and should Adam and Eve visit together it would be impossible for him to go away without some of the beautiful creations which had been the cause of his Down Fall. Come and let our exquisite hats tempt you.

OUR DRY GOODS DEPARTMENT.

In some fields it is fully two feet high, with a fine healthy stand. Farmers are pleased over the prospect of good crops and a bountiful yield of all kinds of fruit.
We are under obligations for the following respecting the death of Weldon H. Lunsford: He was born in North Carolina, Caswell County, June 17, 1840, was married May 5, 1865, and died April 10, 1901. Ten children were born, three of whom are dead. Mr. Lunsford was well known over the county, and his death was universally deplored. We sympathize with the family in the loss of their best friend.

Mrs. Elethea Pope died at her home in Dyer, Tenn., on the 10th inst., at the age of 105 years. Up to the day of her death Mrs. Pope remained in perfect possession of mental faculties. She was born in North Carolina, and taking a trip back in the early eighties she described seeing Nashville as a small town scattered along the banks of the Cumberland River. She saw a portion of three centuries.
John B. Wheeler, of Troy, was here Tuesday looking up insurance business. He says his brother, James, who went to California some years ago, is head salesmen and cutter in Joe Poem's fashionable tailoring house in San Francisco. "Gen" was a staunch old-time friend of ours, as handsome as he was honorable—and he was surely both—and we are glad to hear good report of him.
The Little Tycoon Company have fixed the date for their appearance at Walker's Opera House on Thursday night, May 2. This is the same opera and a portion of the same company, which appeared some years ago in The Little Tycoon in the city. Mrs. Ethie Cary Farrar is the leading soprano. It is to be presented under the auspices of the Daughters of the Confederacy, and will, no doubt, draw a crowded house.
At the meeting of the Elks Saturday night the subject of a new house was discussed. Steps are soon to be taken looking to the construction of a fine building by the united effort of several lodges. A library is spoken of in connection with the building, a donation to be solicited of Mr. Carnegie. It is thought a handsome structure in the railroad park for library and lodges would be practical and ornamental.
A very capable company presented Quo Vadis at Walker's Opera House last Monday night to a good-sized and intelligent audience. The first act was somewhat interrupted by late comers, but as the play progressed interest became concentrated and the company warmed up to their work. It was not as pleasing as the version, but there were some good features in this that the other did not embrace. The company was well balanced. There were two or three, however, whose acting called for special notice. The Greek philosopher of W. J. Schultz was given with a finish worthy of any playhouse, while the characters of Peter by Mr. James and the Ptoepoa of Miss Morton were creditable indeed. The trying part Lygia was also splendidly sustained by Miss Hattie Laurent. Upon the whole it was a very interesting play.

Rev. E. E. Hendrick will return to Union City from Jackson Saturday morning, and will fill his pulpit Sunday and Sunday night. As Sunday will be regular communion service, a full attendance of the church is urged. The theme of sermon Sunday night will be, "A Crude Cake. Text, "Ephraim is a cake not turned." At the Sunday night service the choir will be asked to repeat their brilliant program of Easter music. All who can shout, hear this.
In a recent letter from Malcolm Gibbs, one of the best fellows in the world and an old-time Union City boy, he says: "Do you know I like the style of your paper—not too much braggadocio, but just the thing. Washington is pursuing an even tenor. I thought of you when Annie Russell was here and wished you could have seen her. The play, 'The Royal Family,' was a quiet comedy and just suited her to a dot. Give my regards to all the boys I know." There was much more, but that would be telling, you know.
The literary department of the Epworth League met with Miss Louise Clark at the home of M. Glasscock Friday evening. The subject under discussion was "Jewish Sacrifices, Early and Late." The papers read by Miss Daisy Keiser and Miss Fannie McClure were very instructive and enjoyable. Mr. Chas Dietzel and Mr. Otis Radebaugh entertained the club with magic lantern pictures, which was duly appreciated as was also the peanuts and wax furnished by Mr. Radebaugh. The club voted this one of the pleasantest evenings in its history.
